Question 15

Since no one can keep the law, what is its purpose?

---

That we may know the holy nature and will of God, and the sinful nature and disobedience of our hearts; and thus our need of a Savior. The law also teaches and exhorts us to live a life worthy of our Savior.

Commentary

Charles Simeon

These poor men think they can preach the Gospel without preaching the Law. I say, they must preach the Law, unless they do not mean to preach the Gospel. The Law entered that the offence might abound: proclaim it, I say, for this purpose among your ungodly congregations; lift up your voices like trumpets, and tell the people their transgressions, that you may glorify the more your honoured Master, in proclaiming the infinite riches and fulness of His great salvation. Preach the Law to those who believe, as finished, cancelled, dead for their salvation: point them to Immanuel as holding it in His bleeding hand, and saying to them, "If ye love me, keep my Commandments."

Ligon Duncan

The law of God helps us to know God, know ourselves, know our need, and know the life of peace and blessedness. It helps us to know God because it specifically reveals his character and his attributes, his holy will, what he's like.

Paul tells us in Romans 1 that everyone knows right and wrong. But the law of God very specifically reveals to us God's character and his own moral qualities. Morality is not arbitrary. God doesn't tell us to do arbitrary things. God does not require us to do things that he is not prepared to do himself. So all morality is rooted in God's character. And when we study the law, we see a display of God's character.

God's law also reveals to us ourselves, especially our sinful nature and our disobedience, our inclination to sin. For instance, when Jesus is talking to the rich young ruler, he says, "Go, sell what you possess, and give to the poor" (Matt. 19:21). And the rich young ruler essentially says to Jesus, "I can't." And he walks away sadly. Now what's going on in that story? Is Jesus saying that we all have to give away all of our possessions? No. But in the
